One is www.example.com and the other is example.com. On example.com, I use the folder structure www.example.com/content. What I want is to redirect all requests from www.example.com to www.example.com/content. So if I go to www.example.com/abc, I want it to automatically be redirected to www.example.com/content/abc. I want www.example.com/content to be the canonical link. I would also like this to happen without code changes. So it doesn't matter if www.example.com/content doesn't exist, as long as the request for www.example.com/content/abc is redirected to www.example.com/content/abc. Is there some way to do this with a simple.htaccess file, or do I need to write some custom code? A: You can do this with mod_rewrite, but you'll need to add the following.htaccess file: RewriteEngine On RewriteCond %{HTTP_HOST} ^www.example.com [NC] RewriteCond %{REQUEST_URI}!^content/ [NC] RewriteCond %{REQUEST_URI}!(.)\/$ RewriteRule ^(.)$ content/$1/ [L,R=301] This will redirect to If you do not want to add the.htaccess file to your document root, then you'll need to do this instead: RewriteEngine On RewriteCond %{HTTP_HOST} ^www.example f988f36e3a
